Net Gain: A New Method for Preventing Malaria Deaths ...

A finely spun net could prevent as many as one-third of all child deaths in Africa, reports IDRC's new publication, Net Gain. Studies conducted in Gambia, Ghana, and Kenya show that the insecticide-treated mosquito net reduced the mortality rate of children under 5 years of age by up to 63 percent. Net Gain reviews and discusses the development.

Net Gain: A New Method for Preventing Malaria Deaths ...

Insecticide-treated nets (ITNs) have emerged as a promising tool for controlling malaria at the community level, notably in African countries where malaria is highly endemic. This book reviews the technical issues related to implementing ITN programs in developing countries, including the entomological impact of the nets, the materials and
